Celebrating Successful Indigenous Women and Their Paths

National Aboriginal Trust Officers Association (NATOA) is a charitable organization that believes that only by empowering the Indigenous women in Canada, we can achieve robust and sustainable economic development, protect the rights of our Indigenous peoples and lay the foundation for stable, healthy societies in Canada and worldwide.

NATOA is proud to host its first 'Indigenous Women's Summit and Gala' that will take place May 15, 2019 at The Westin Bayshore Vancouver in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The summit will feature some of the most successful and influential Indigenous women across the country who have created and accomplished their set goals.

Join us as we showcase real life stories of hardships, planning, action, set-backs and victories, awarding one woman who has paved the way for future women in 2019.

Summit panel discussions include:

- Indigenous Economy and Innovative Strategies to Succeed
- Community Leadership
- Entrepreneurship and Corporate Canada
- Entrepreneurial Success
- Trusts, Investment and Finance

The event will also include a special gala evening that will celebrate these women, and will award one exceptional recipient who has accomplished her goals. 50% of the profits will go towards Indigenous women in need.
