Celebrating Successful Indigenous Women and Their Paths

National Aboriginal Trust Officers Association (NATOA) is a charitable organization that believes that only by empowering the Indigenous women in Canada, we can achieve robust and sustainable economic development, protect the rights of our Indigenous peoples and lay the foundation for stable, healthy societies in Canada and worldwide.

NATOA is proud to host its first Indigenous Women's Summit and Gala that will take place May 15, 2019 at The Westin Bayshore Vancouver in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The summit will feature some of the most successful and influential Indigenous women across Canada who have created and accomplished their set goals. Panel discussions include:

- Indigenous Economy and Innovative Strategies to Succeed
- Community Leadership
- Entrepreneurship and Corporate Canada
- Trusts, Investment and Finance

To see the Summit Agenda, visit GoToRegister.ca/NATOA

Join us as we showcase real life stories of hardships, planning, action, set-backs and victories, awarding one woman who has paved the way for future generations with the first NATOA National Award of Distinction. 50% of the profits will go towards Indigenous women in need.

We believe everyone should celebrate the strong, successful Indigenous women of our country. This event is open to ALL individuals and is not a women's only event. Please join us and register online at www.GoToRegister.ca/NATOA

GALA EVENING

This special day also includes a gala evening that celebrates these powerful women and honours one exceptional recipient with the first NATOA National Award of Distinction.
