

Communities prepared with the Edu-Therapy™ Process are stronger and more resilient.

We are all stakeholders of the collective grief and trauma experience. The Edu-Therapy™ Process creates a safe place to acknowledge, accept and integrate pain resolution processes – creating resiliency and long term healing.

Edu-Therapy™ Solutions

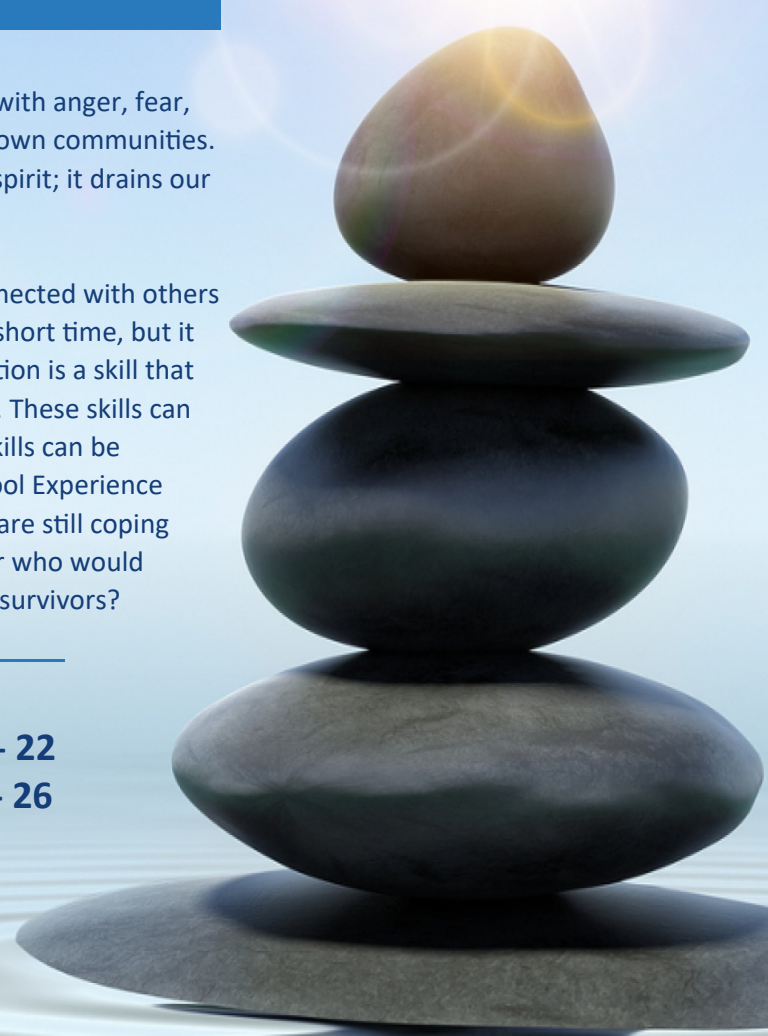

Building Sustainable Mental Wellness

The Residential School Experience has left many filled with anger, fear, resentment, a loss of trust, and feeling unsafe in their own communities. This unresolved grief disconnects our mind, body and spirit; it drains our energy, and brings conflict into our relationships.

Courageously, many have shared their stories and connected with others with similar experiences. Sharing may be helpful for a short time, but it does not resolve the long term pain and anger. Resolution is a skill that must be learned. It is a learning that will last a lifetime. These skills can be easily repeated over and over again. In fact these skills can be passed on to the next generation. The Residential School Experience has harmed many lives. Are you one of the many who are still coping with those negative effects? Are you a wellness worker who would like to impact true healing in the community for many survivors?
