

Opportunity at Toronto Metropolitan University

Associate Director, Curriculum Indigenous Communities & Health

It's time to transform medical education. Toronto Metropolitan University's School of Medicine is being designed to shift the paradigm of healthcare delivery and improve the well-being of individuals, families and communities. With a community-driven, intentionally inclusive approach, the new school will train doctors whose cultural awareness and humility are as crucial as their medical skills.

The Opportunity

The Associate Director, Curriculum, Indigenous Communities & Health at TMU School of Medicine is a pivotal leadership role ensuring alignment with the institutional vision and mission. This involves strategic curriculum development, implementation, and improvement to enhance educational experiences for medical students.

Toronto
Metropolitan University

Department: School of Medicine
Position supervisor: Assistant Dean,
Curricular Innovation
Contract length: 3 years
Hours of work per week: 0.2 FTE (7.25 hours per week)
Position type: Clinical Faculty
Rate of pay: Daily rate for MDs

TMU is a proud partner of Indigenous Link's
Community Connections

For more information, we invite you to visit:
GotoApply.ca/Curriculum

