Indigenous Youth Internship Program (IYIP) $59,015.56 annually

Internships will begin on September 8, 2025, and end on August 31, 2026.

Internships may be located in Vancouver, Victoria, or multiple communities around the Province of BC, depending on positions and operational requirements.

Gain valuable experience through this award-winning program - with an opportunity you'll never forget!

Find out more about the program, its people and successes, and submit your application before April 30, 2025. You will learn many aspects of public service and provincial government processes, participate in workshops across the province, develop your leadership and professional skills and create a path for your future education and career development.

The Indigenous Youth Internship Program (IYIP) will launch its 19th year in the public service this September. The one-year opportunity – led by the BC Public Service Agency – welcomes exceptional Indigenous youth ages 19-29 and supports you through:

- Nine months of work in a ministry.
- Three months of work at an Indigenous organization in BC.
